Security Doors

Durable and versatile door systems designed to enhance security in various business settings. They typically consist of hinged panels that can be folded or stacked neatly to the side when not in use, providing both security and flexibility for managing access and visibility in commercial spaces. These doors are commonly used in retail stores, airports, pharmacies, schools, hospitals, offices, community centers and multi-use recreational facilities, or any kind of public space. We have a variety of patterns, styles, materials, finishes and colors available in all of our commercial side folding door series. Curved tracks are no problem – they can all follow almost any degree of track curvature. We can also create custom solutions.

Our posts are highly functional and well designed with many ways to secure the curtain with a wide variety of locking posts. All of our locking posts are completely reversible to accommodate left-hand and right-hand grips. All posts have flush-mounted hardware for sleek look and elimination of snag points. The unique shape makes these our strongest locking posts ever, while making it the easiest to service.
